

The prayer of a homeless person.

If I am to live with only one delight. Let it be experiencing a peaceful night.

The prayer of a forlorn lover.

Should I see my love once more and learn. Let them not exit my door, and not return.

The prayer of a criminal.

Let this act be my last of need. It is a challenge of my conscious to meet my greed.

The prayer of a convict.

Let me gain release from prison alive in good health. Unite me with those I hold dear, my wealth.

The prayer of a student.

It would be great for me to get eternal the 'A'. The education available now is the better value.

The prayer of a young person.

Let me gain all I seek, with bliss and no effort. Let me not experience any toil or loss.

The prayer of an old man.

Just one more day, that is all I ask. There is still much more to do in this life's task.

The prayer of a religious person.

My God, reward my efforts. To learn you shall not will be very odd.

The prayer of a poet.

I may rhyme. There may be rhythm. Art, entertainment and message are my intent, what I give.
