“How I feel about a World without Prisons”

As the wind blows and the sun plus the moon rises and falls...the world continues to turn.
Every human being wakes up to either go to their job or block where they hustle.
But a world is torn between the good and bad due to a world without prisons...
Picture...
Bullets flying like birds in the sky, innocent kids hit by drunken drivers and not on accident but of chance...
Murders happen 'cause people was angry and all in their feelings.
at the end of the day there's no punishments but the world keeps turning...
But as I said, we are torn 'cause without prisons...we can also send our youth to schools and lessen the violence by having more jobs with better pay.
So whether there's no prisons or there is prisons, take your life day by day, hour by hour, minutes by minute.
