

What Happens next?

Where you are at is the result of the choices you have made.
Accept each moment as a consequence of the games you have played.
Many have survived and flourished, after greater hardships than you.
Their pain was not lessened, but did have a broader view.
Use your talent, and information available, as time slips away.
Understand what happens next depends on what you do.

RIV