

Jerimichael Cooley, 2019
Words Uncaged Class

EVERY DAY

Mental speeches noise blaring. A cacophony of inaudible noise. Pressure released, pungent stench, urgency of motion, dizzying stress. Brush of bodies excuses awry, cold metal presses, rings true of tone , bonging slaps of sound hands waved in air quick salute, evil stare. Inhale of light stale, but sweet. Biting cold rosy cheeks, thunderous crunching. Divine release, warm embrace. Yellow to red to black and then one moment before ... this ends!