

PRECIOUS TIME

As Time passes by, we only realize the changes in day into night, night into day, but these changes are more profound than what they truly say!

These fleeting moments are the best parts of our life, leaving us unnoticed! Every second, every minute of every hour, is lost to a universe with endless amounts of it as we know it!

So I've come to the realization of how precious my time is! It is the one thing lost that can never really or truly be regained.

It is very important that whatever time I have, it is being spent loving, caring, forgiving, embracing and never hating nor creating negative spaces. So little time, wow oh wow, so very little precious time!
