Family

Having family is something to be grateful for,
Because for some people, they just don't have,
When you're searching,
Needing a helping hand,
And there's no one left,
Why turn to somebody when you can't trust nobody,
Then you realize the only family you got is yourself,
You go thru life seeking a significant other,
Your other half that you can possibly start a family with,
But come to find out she was only using you for your money, security, and good looks,
Even after all that, she gave you your first kid,
Don't want to split up cause you personally know how that is,
To have no family so you don't want that for you kid,
So you don't want him/her to see how that actually is,
Go thru struggle, thru the good times and bad,
Just know that me not having a family,
Is a thing in the past,
Having a family is something worth dying for...
