

J. Suarez, AM-6679

WordsUncaged Submission

“Will We Stand?”

In the center of the world is where you stand. Your presence alters the universe, as it has altered me to disperse, my feelings through this poetic verse.

Only time will tell, the strength of the spell, that unconsciously you have cast upon me.

Can it be, that it is love that I feel, my heart keeps it real. However, the mind on one self can play deceiving games.

Am I a fool to set my hopes up high, to think that together we shall live our lives? I hope that our slight encounters develop into an everlasting commitment and not a sad goodbye.

When I close my eyes it is you who I visualize in my mind. You help me find the strength to believe that it is all going to come true.

If what I feel for you, you also feel for me, then two halves shall meet...and we shall live together for eternity.